

Aphrodite Gold, the definitive answer to wrinkles

Aphrodite Gold is a so-called long lasting injectable and corrects wrinkles with long-lasting results. Aphrodite Gold is based on a technology in which the cosmetics industry has gained over 10 years of experience. How exactly does it work? Is the treatment safe? Is it painful? The answers are included in this leaflet

Wouldn't it be wonderful to turn back time

As we get older, the skin loses its elasticity. It gets thinner and flabbier, which causes wrinkles. However, the degree to which this effect is shown differs from person to person. A matter of luck, expensive creams or simply moving with the times and using the newest treatment methods within the cosmetics industry?

The threshold of entering a cosmetic surgery clinic wishing to look younger has lowered over the past few years. This has everything to do with the newest treatment methods. Methods that are less drastic and expensive than facelifts. Methods involving shorter recovery periods compared to surgery or laser techniques.

The current anti-wrinkle treatments can be administered during lunch break so to speak. We are talking about the wide range of injectables. They are all over the magazines and are also increasingly featuring on television.

What causes wrinkles

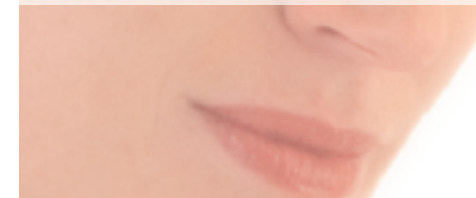

The occurrence of wrinkles is influenced in two ways: from the inside as a result of skin ageing and from the outside as a result of sunlight, smoking, stress, environmental pollution, the movement of face muscles (frowning, laughing) and the posture we adopt when sleeping. Skin ageing – also called 'intrinsic ageing' – is linked to the years that are going by.

What is Aphrodite Gold

Aphrodite Gold is a long lasting injectable. The gel consists of natural atelocollagen and coated polymethylmetacrylate (PMMA) microbeads and is used for the lasting correction of lines and wrinkles.

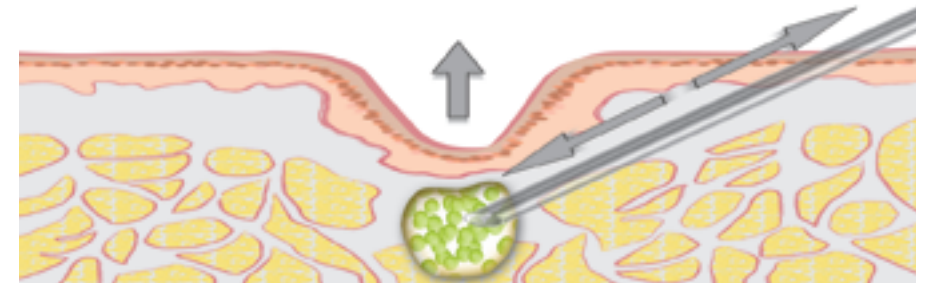

How does Aphrodite Gold work

Aphrodite Gold is injected underneath the skin surface by a doctor using a very thin needle. The needle is moved gently back and forth according to the so-called 'tunneling' technique, which creates tiny ducts. The ducts are filled with Aphrodite Gold. The injected collagen is then absorbed by the body and will stimulate the production of collagen.

A very thin layer of connective tissue is formed around the PMMA beads occurring in the collagen but not absorbed by the body (encapsulation), which causes skin augmentation. This augmentation process takes approximately two months. The wrinkle will again be shortly visible a few weeks after the injection and will permanently disappear after approximately two to three months.

Wrinkle treatment with Aphrodite Gold

Is the treatment painful

Generally, the treatment hardly causes any pain, but this differs depending on the area to be treated. For example, a lip treatment will cause more pain than a wrinkle treatment around the nose. Of course, you can always discuss with your doctor whether additional anaesthetics are required on top of the anaesthetic substance that Aphrodite Gold contains.

Is the treatment followed by a long recovery period

The skin may turn a little red after the treatment and be slightly swollen for two or three days. There is no need for a recovery period. Just take it easy for a day. What is important, however, is that you try to move your face muscles as little as possible for up to three days after the treatment. Strong facial expressions interfere with the encapsulation of injected PMMA beads, whereas the formation of connective tissue is essential to achieving good results.

Is it safe

Over 10 years of experience and more than 250.000 treatments using similar technology have proven that the treatment is absolutely safe.

Specially trained doctors

An expert application of the injection technique plays a vital role in obtaining optimal results. For this purpose, the doctors using Aphrodite Gold are specifically trained in this injection technique. Moreover, it goes without saying that the utmost care is applied to the quality of the product.

Do wrinkles disappear immediately

Wrinkles disappear after the skin has been augmented as a result of connective tissue formation. This may take a few weeks. Hence, the required results will not be optimal until after a couple of months.

Is one treatment sufficient

In most cases, the best results require two treatments, depending on the wrinkle to be treated. The doctor will inform you on this.

Do wrinkles disappear permanently

Aphrodite Gold is a long-lasting wrinkle filler. This means that the effect is shown for several years and does not disappear after a couple of months, as is the case with temporary implants. With temporary implants, the injected gel is slowly absorbed by the body, but with Aphrodite Gold, the PMMA beads are encapsulated for permanent results.

Obviously, the treatment does not put an end to the natural process of further wrinkle formation and skin ageing.
